THE FIRST AMERICAN COINS.

Wampum—that is, strings of shells ground down so that each piece was about the size of a grain of corn—was used by the Indians for ornament and for barter. The early colonists, through trading with the Indians, became accustomed to this article, and used it to some extent among themselves. But as it would not be taken by the merchants in Europe for goods ordered from them, a metallic currency was soon demanded.

In 1652, therefore, the Court of Massachusetts issued at Boston some silver pieces of the value of twelve and of six English pennies each. These coins were merely round, flat pieces of silver, with "N. E." (New England) on the one one side, and the value, XII. or VI., on the other. The frugal authorities wasted no money on engraving, not even announcing the year in which the coins were issued.

This coinage was, however, so distasteful, because of the absence of designs, that another series was at once issued, on some of which is a scraggy oak tree, inclosed inclosed in a circle of dots, outside of which are the words "Masathvsets, in," while round the edge on the reverse is the remainder of the legend, "New England, An Dom." On this reverse is the date, 1652, in the center, with the numeral of value, XII., VI., III. II., below it. On others of this design is a pine tree; and while of both these designs occasional issues took place during nearly thirty years, yet the date 1652 is the only one used.

Charles the Second, it is said, regarded this coinage of the colony as an encroachment on his prerogative. We believe, however, that his dislike was overcome by the statement that the design was a memorial of the famous oak-tree hiding place of his father.—St. Nicholas for September.

Don't be a grumbler. Some people contrive to get hold of the prickly side of everything, to run against all the sharp corners, and to find out all the disagreeable things. Half the strength spent in growling would often set things right. You may as well make up your mind to begin with, that no one ever found the world quite as he would like it; but you are to take your share of the trouble and bear it bravely. You will be very sure to have burdens laid upon you that belong to other people, unless you are a shirk yourself; but don't grumble. If the work needs doing, and you can do it, never mind about the other boy who ought to have done it and didn't. Those workers who fill up the gaps and smooth away the rough spots and finish up the jobs that others leave undone—they are true peacemakers, and worth a whole regiment of growlers.

During the Revolution of 1776 the continental currency became of little value. The currency was counterfeited to such an extent that it became necessary for the Government to take some steps to ascertain which was genuine. To this end they required that it should all be brought to the common treasury. Here the spurious were distinguished from the genuine notes, and such counterfeit notes had the word dam—an abreviation of the Latin word damnatus, condemned, stamped upon their face. When the very small value of the genuine continental notes and the utter worthlessness of those marked dam., is considered, it will be easy to assign a source to this phrase. The addition of the letter n to the abbreviation requires no explanation.

A gentleman in Danbury, Conn., has long been annoyed by his neighbor's hens, which made a daily practice of roving through his front garden and back yard. And what did this worthy gentleman do? He just went patiently and put some old hats and hay under his steps and in the barn, and when those hens came on their marauding expeditions those that came to scratch remained to lay. He has had all the fresh eggs he wanted this spring, and has sold $4 60 worth to the man that owns the hens.

An editor, quoting Dr. Hall's advice to "eat regularly, not over three times a day, and nothing between meals," adds "Tramps will do well to cut this out and put it in their bank-books."

"Man," says Adam Smith, "is an animal that makes bargains. No other animal does this—no dog exchanges bones with another."

"Pa, are you in favor of the Bible in public schools?" asked a West Side youngster at the breakfast table, the other morning. "Why, of course I am," responded the father, pleased that such an important subject should engage the attention of his youthful offspring.—"What makes you ask such a question, my son?" "O, nothing," rejoined the young hopeful; "only I thought may be you wasn't; you never read one at home."

A little boy pranced up to his mother one day and said: "Ma, haven't I been real good since I've begun goin' to Sunday school?" "Yes, my lamb," answered the maternal, fondly. "And you trust me now, don't you, ma?" "Yes, darling, she replied again. "Then," spoke up the little innocent, "what makes you keep the cookies locked up in the pantry the same as ever?"

To harden plaster objects, it is recommended to add to it three or four per cent. of powdered althea root—marsh mallow. The resultant mass, in about an hour after setting, will be found to have acquired such a degree of hardness that it may be turned, and sawed. Buttons, dice, dominoes, etc. are made from it.

In some of the German hotels the bedrooms are furnished with racks, about three feet high, upon which trunks are placed. This arrangement saves you from stooping to the floor, as you are forced to do in most hotels in this country.

Children reduced to almost the last stages of cholera infantum, when they are unable to hold any other food on their stomachs, will greedily take strong beef tea, salted and made palatable—and will often recover on that treatment.

"What time is it?" asked one passenger of another in a Detroit depot the other day. "Ten minutes to wait," was the answer, as the man looked up at the time-table.

Beef and mutton cost about three cents a pound in Servia, a turkey fetches a shilling, a pair of fowls may be had for six cents, and an ox only costs from $10 to $12. Native tobacco and wine are equally cheap, but bad.

KING LUDWIG'S FAMOUS GARDEN.

The reigning King of Bavaria has made the terrace of Saalbau his palace. The lodgings are in the most extravagant rococo style, and there is a garden compared with which Semiramis' were but vulgar kitchen gardens. It is in this fairy garden, where all the flowers of the tropics sing a voluptuous symphony of perfume, that the king spends his winter days—days which are so dark and melancholy at Munich. When one enters this garden one scarcely believes the evidence of his own eyes. One is tempted to take the servant who guides you, and who, in doing so, violates the orders, for an infant magician, for a sorcerer, for an enchanter. On the right hand is a large rock, covered with moss, on which trail, like enormous serpents bristling with darts, cacti and orchids. The background represents and East Indian landscape, with tall, slender bamboos and broad-leaved bananas; and in the rear is a cascade, which pours its opal waters with silvery, musical tumult. When one gets near the rock, he discovers, under ivy drapery, the entrance of a cavern, which leads to the waterfall. As one proceeds farther into the cavern its sides widen, and, through the vaporous blue shades which fill it precious stones, diamonds and golden stalactites glitter like drops of dew in the sun. Let us leave the cascade on our right and move toward the left. We shall enter an avenue of palm trees and reach a Moorish kiosk, whose bulbous cupola rises to the glass roof of the greenhouse. A blue silk curtain closes this kiosk, where reigns a religious calm unbroken, as in some chapel. The windows have the form of the trefoil leaf, through which a delicate light filters, and a cut-glass chandelier throws in the centre of this sanctuary its rainbows innumerable. A nargbile, or Turkish pipe, adorned with long, pearl embroidered tubes, stands on a lapislazuli table. One thinks one's self in a sultan's saloon. This edifice is called "The Kiosk of Delights." The King of Bavaria never crosses the threshold, except dressed as a Turk of the old school, wearing an enormous turban, and with a golden crescent in the middle of his back. He winds up the self-playing piano, which is concealed behind a curtain, lights his Turkish pipe, stretches himself at length on a sofa, and passes away whole afternoons amid tobacco's amber clouds and the melodies of his mechanical orchestra. There are many mysterious and perfumed paths—bordered with seats covered with satin, and well stuffed—and evergreen arbors, at whose farther end is a Venus or a crouching Sphinx—leading from the kiosk to the enchanted banks of a little lake, which is blue and limpid as a fragment of Orient sky, and which seems to dream of its native land under the motionless cupola of palm trees. It requires Doré's pencil to depict this marvelous scene. It is a splendid vision, a corner of Paradise. Mountains obedient as those of Holy Writ, docile cliffs frame this lake, in which thousands of gold and silver fishes sport, on which beautiful Chinese ducks swim, and which is lighted by day as well as by night by eternal moonbeams. There is machinery by which the star-spangled sky may, at will, be covered by black clouds, vivid lightning flash, hoarse thunder peal, and the lake become tossed by angry billows. The King of Bavaria, costumed as William Tell, then enters a boat moored to a tree on the bank, casts off, and rows among the dashing billows.

Mr. Butler was tavern-keeper, stage driver, constable, and factotum of the town. There was no appeal from his judgment in horseflesh. A dealer wanted to sell the Rev. McClure a horse.—The dealer, the minister, and the horse walked over to get Mr Butler's opinion of the trade. Looking at the horse, the tavern-keeper asked, "What is the matter with his knees?" "Oh! nothing," said the jocky, "he scraped himself getting up." "Well, parson," said Butler, addressing Mr. McClure, "I'll tell you what it is: barked knees may be a pretty good sign for a minister, but it is a plaguey poor sign for a hoss."

One of the largest droves of cattle ever brought from Texas was a few weeks since driven from Captain Ring's rancho in Nueces county to Kansas.—The herd numbered 30,000 horned cattle, and needed 700 drivers. The outfit alone cost $50,000, and the cattle were disposed of for $320,000.

Man may learn wisdom from a postage-stamp. It sticks to its legitimate business. Letters profit by it.

GUIBORD.—Joseph Guibord's grave has a tombstone at last. It consists of one of the of the sarcophogus which was prepared last Fall, and destined to inclose the coffin to prevent its disinterment, but which was not used. It is 7 feet 10 inches long, 3 feet 6 inches wide, and 1 foot 6 inches high, and weighs two and a half tons, and on its upper surface has a marble tablet bearing this inscription "Joseph Guibord; Decede 19th November, 1869, inhume 16th November, 1875." Mr. Boisseau, the Superintendent of the Institute Canadien, applied at the office of the Fabrique to obtain a permit for the entry of the stone, and was told that the Fabrique had not any response to make to his application; that they ignored the Institute Canadien, and consequently would neither grant nor refuse the permit. The block was conveyed around the mountain to the Roman Catholic cemetery. Soon after reaching it, the guardian of the cemetery asked if they were going to put it upon Guibord's grave. They replied in the affirmative, whereupon he turned and walked off without saying another word. In order to ascertain the condition of the Portland cement, with which the coffin was surrounded, it was examined and found to be impervious to the pick, and having no marks of tampering. After a good deal of lifting and tugging, the stone was placed into position exactly over the coffin.

The Bozeman Times tells of the narrow escape from the Indians of Taylor, the scout that brought the news of Custer's defeat to Fort Ellis. On the Big Horn he was attacked by a band of Indians while on a high bluff. He made a dash for the river, and swam it twice on horseback, the Indians shooting at him all the time. He then saw a high rock, perpendicular on all sides except in one place, where a man well armed could defend himself against great odds He abandoned his horse, took possession of the rock, and for the rest of the day the Indians amused themselves with firing at him and trying to catch his horse. At sunset they left, and Taylor came down, caught his horse, which was well trained, and continued his journey, arriving at Fort Ellis the third day after starting.

If your chicks get infested with vermin, anoint the poll of the head, under the throat and wings, with sulphur and lard; better still, with kerosene, if you use it with judgment. If they droop and you are at a loss for a cause, look for vermin; it is a bad sign to see them stand around with drooping wings; look for lice or gapes. Provide your sitting hens with plenty of ashes to dust in, and the chicks with the same when hatched, and you will not be bothered much with vermin.

Hartford physicians can't be a very well-educated set. Among the recent death certificates sent to the City Clerk these causes of death appear: Colre infantum, scholafer (scrofula), sun strok, applexy fitt, colre fanthum, infuside (infantile), absesse, dire, parletic shock, reustism, (rheumatism), general debilty, hearth disese, earsipless, long fever, paralasis, loung feovar, spinal meneget-tes.

To be well dressed, you must have your skirts tied closely together at the back, just under the bend of the knee. Your corsage must be so tight as to fit like the skin, and the sleeves must look as if molded to the arm. You must be done up so tight all over as not to be able to stoop over or sit down, or raise your arms to tie your vail, or even put on your hat.

It is said that no one remembers ever having noticed a living evergreen that had been struck by lightning. It has therefore been suggested that a building well surrounded by such trees would be comparatively free from danger of being rent by lightning.

In a pamphlet circulated among workingmen in Germany, Cain is eulogized as the industrious laborer who, in killing Abel, struck a merited blow at laziness.

Mohair chairs are going out of fashion, and we are glad of it. A mohair chair is the worst thing in the world to sit on when drawing on a pair of pants.

In Canadian cities beggars make quite a living by picking up ears which have frozen and dropped off, and returning them to their rightful owners.

The death is announced in Vienna of Madame Hulsenstein, formerly maid of honor to Maria Theresa, at the well authenticated age of 119.

"I wish I was a pudding, mamma." "Why?" "'cause I should have lots of sugar put into me."

A NAVAL ANECDOTE.—The following anecdote will be read with interest:—On January 16th, 1780, Sir George Rodney encountered the Spanish Admiral Langara off Cape St. Vincent. The action, which continued until two hours after midnight, was well contested, but the victory of the English was complete. Langara's own ship of 80 guns was taken, and three ships-of-the-line, besides, while four others were either sunk, blown up, or driven ashore. Langara himself was brought a prisoner into the Bay of Gibralter, and conducted to lodgings in the town. One day, as it is recorded, the captive Spaniard went out in a boat to visit Admiral Digby, in whose ship was serving one of the young princes, the same who was years after became King William the Fourth. When Langara first came on board, he was presented in due form to the English prince; but when the conference between the chiefs had closed, and it was intimated that Langara desired to return, his Royal Highness appeared in his character of midshipman, and, standing before the two Admirals as they sat, announced in the respectful tone becoming an inferior that the boat was ready. The Spaniard, surprised at seeing the son of a monarch acting as a petty officer, immediately exclaimed: "Well does England deserve her superiority at sea, when the humblest stations in her navy are filled by princes of the blood!" Some doubts (says the Navy) having been expressed as to the truth of this story, as related in Drinkwater's "Siege of Gibralter," it was referred to King William himself. In reply, a letter from Sir Herbert Taylor, written by his Majesty's command, and dated the 24th of March, 1835, declares that the anecdote is correctly stated in every respect.

HOW TO BOIL EGGS.—There is an objection to the common way of boiling eggs which people do not understand. It is this: The white, under three minutes rapid cooking, becomes tough and indigestible, while the yolk is left out. When properly cooked, eggs are done evenly through, like any other food. This result may be obtained by putting the eggs into a dish with a cover, as a tin pail, and then pouring upon them boiling water, two quarts or more to a dozen eggs, and cover and, set away from the stove for fifteen minutes. The heat of the water cooks the eggs slowly, and evenly and sufficiently, and a jelly-like consistency, leaving the yolk harder than the white, and the egg tasts as much richer and nicer as a fresh egg is nicer than a stale one, and no person will want to eat them boiled after trying this method once.

POISONS.—On April 21st, the Austrian Government published a decree in regard to the traffic in poisons, declaring the following substances to be included under the term poison: 1.—Arsenic and all its compounds. 2. Chlorides and oxides of antimony. 3. Oxides and salts, including the chlorides, iodides and bromides of mercury. 4. Ordinary phosphorus. 5, Bromine. 6. Prussic acid, and preparations containing it, as also all cyanides, with the exception of those containing iron. 7. All violently active preparations made from posionous plants and animals, and manufactured artficially, such as the alkaloids, curare, cantharides, etc.

A poor man who had a large family broke his leg, and, as he would be for some little time unable to go to church, it was proposed to hold a prayer meeting at his house. The meeting was led by Deacon Brown. A knock at the door interrupted the service. A tall, lank, blue-frocked youngster stood at the door with an ox-goad in his hand, and asked to see Deacon Brown. He said: "Father could not attend this meeting, but he sent his prayers, and they are out in the wagon." They were in the shape of potatoes, beef, pork and corn.

A correspondent of the Rural Home, speaking of the benefit which birds render farmers, says: On Thursday last, while at work near a wheat field, my attention was called to the fact that some of the wheat had been picked from the heads in certain parts of the field. As my neighbor seemed to think that the mischief was done by the yellow birds, I procured a gun and shot one of the supposed offenders. Although interrupted while taking his breakfast, we found in his stomach only three grains of wheat, and, by actual count, 350 weevils.

We read of a man who placed 200 potato bugs in a bottle and sprinkled lime over them. Within one hour not one was left alive. On the following day he sprinkled lime over his potato patch, and on the next morning found tens of thousands of the bugs lying dead The experiment is worth trying.

HON. H. F. PAGE.

Below we publish the manly letter of Hon. H. F. Page accepting the Republican nomination for re election to Congress. Mr. Page has been a useful member and a very faithful representative of our State, and there can be no question but what he will be re-elected by a large majority. At the previous elections Mr. Page had opposition in this county that will not be brought to bear against him in this contest. His record is such that no Republican can conscientiously vote against him, and his course has been such as to draw hundreds of fair-minded Democrats to his support. The letter is under date of August 19th:

Gentlemen: Your favor of the 10th instant, notifying me of my unanimous renomination for Representative in Congress for the Second District of California is received.

I can hardly find words appropriate to express my gratitude for this renewed expression of confidence. It is with a high sense of the honor thus conferred by a generous constituency and of the great responsibility involved that I accept the nomination tendered by the Convention.

After having served two terms in Congress, it is deeply gratifying to receive this evidence of popular indorsement. If re-elected, my legislative experience will, I trust, enhance my usefulness to the country and to my constituents, whose respect and esteem I prize so highly.

I congratulate the Republicans of California and of the whole country upon the fact that in this contest they present an united, unbroken front; that old differences and dissensions are forgotten, and that the true patriots of the land have determined that this Government shall be administered by its friends and not by those who sought to destroy it. I shall therefore enter into the canvass confident of overwhelming victory for the entire Republican ticket.

Hoping to meet you and the people of the Second District within a short time to give an account of my stewardship,

I am, very respectfully,
H. F. PAGE.

TILDEN'S INCOME.—The Democrats in the East are greatly concerned over the charge of perjury preferred against Tilden in connection with his income tax. His friends are trying to defend him, but the proof is too positive, and a man like Tilden cannot excuse himself for committing perjury. When the country was in peril and her loyal people—particularly the poor and middle classes—promptly came forward and paid their income tax, while the rich Tilden evaded the payment by false swearing, and thereby withheld that which the Government required to aid it in the suppression of a rebellion looking to the overthrow of a Government of which he now aspires to be the Head Center. All those that spent their money and risked their lives to preserve the Union will be backward in supporting Tilden for the Presidency.

The S. F. Call of the 31st says:

The local market for silver coin continues steady at 5@5¾ per cent discount, from the demand from the interior. As was predicted, trade dollars have become scarce in the market, and yesterday sold at a premium on silver coin, the Nevada Bank and some of the brokers holding them at a par with gold. Their coinage is limited, and what are in the market have been quietly concentrated into the hands of a few parties, who can put their own price upon them when they are needed for export.

It is affirmed, at Rome, that the Cardinals are unanimously agreed to omit certain ceremonies in the conclave to be held when the election of the successor to Pope Pius IX becomes necessary. The object is to hasten the election of the new Pope and keep the conclave from foreign influence.

"Is Samuel J. Tilden here?" said a nervous-looking man at the gates of the driving-park yesterday, rising in his carriage that the question might be heard by all. "No," said several persons. "Then," said the nervous-looking man, turning to the driver, "I think it will be safe. Drive in."

Parties in Eureka, Cal., have purchased land in the vicinity of that town. They will erect a large glass manufactory on the site, as the materials necessary for the manufacture are found in large quantities on the ground.

HOW TO VANQUISH THE STOMACH'S TORMENTOR.

If the Enemy of mankind was permitted to exert his diabolical ingenuity in the invention of a new disease, he could scarcely devise one more worthy of his genius than dyspepsia.—The dyspeptic sufferer is tormented by symptoms resembling those of almost every known malady, and is often worried into monomania by these conflicting and perplexing manifestations. A favorable though absurd hallucination of the victim of chronic indigestion is that he or she has heart disease. Dyspepsia has often been pronounced incurable, but experience has shown that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will vanquish it, together with the constipation and bilious derangement which usually accompany it. Diseases of the kidneys and supposed rheumatic pains are also frequent concomitants of dyspepsia, but they, too, succumb to the above named invaluable corrective.

The Postal Convention between the United States and the island of Bermuda was signed on Tuesday last, by which postage between the two countries will hereafter be in accordance with the terms made by the Convention, viz: Five cents for every half ounce or fractional part thereof, prepayment optional. The following from the Coast Review, the only Insurance journal on the Pacific Coast, is to the point:

"For faithful and economical management, the Mutual Benefit has a record equal to any Company in America. Its dividends paid to GROSS premiums received, have been LARGER than those of any other Company for the past ten years, and its average ratio of expense of management to income, since its organization, only amounts to 8 and 76-100 per cent. It is PURELY MUTUAL, dividing up the surplus annually with the policy-holders. It is a sound and reliable organization, under judicious management, and entitled to the full confidence and liberal patronage of the public."

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE NEW MILL.—We stated last week that estimates were being prepared for the erection of a 20-stamp mill for the I X L Company. The contract has been let to N. D. Arnot, of the Vulcan Iron Works, San Francisco, who is now here making arrangements to commence the work. The mill is to be a 20-stamp one, and will be furnished with the latest milling improvements. Mr. Arnot already has some of the machinery on the way from San Francisco, and will have all the works on the ground within fifty days. The new mill is to be erected on the beautiful flat known as Nye's ranch, about half a mile below Silver Mountain and is to be completed and in working order within 120 days. The erection of this mill will be watched with much interest by all interested in mining operations in this county. The reputation of the contractor and the Vulcan Iron Works is a sufficient guarantee that the I X L will be a model mill.

PROSPECTORS.—We learn that some San Francisco parties have been on a prospecting tour to the old site of Summit City in the Mokelumne Mining District in this county, and have taken up a number of claims in that vicinity. It is to be hoped that the mines in that district will fall into the hands of parties that will work them, as there are good mines well worthy the outlay of coin.

THE NEW JAIL.—The new county jail at Markleeville is assuming proportions—as our friend Lewis would say. The floor is laid and the two iron cells have been placed in position. The edifice will be a substantially built log jail, and one that will require an inmate to possess more substantial tools than case-knife saws to enable him to escape. It will be a credit to Sheriff Scott, who has had the full management in its erection.

NORTH EXTENSION.—On Monday next Mr. Arnot will commence the erection of a boarding house on the Nye ranch for his employees on the I X L mill. This will be the pioneer building of North Park, and it will not be long after the completion of the mill when we will see quite a town spring up in that vicinity. Being close to town it will be a favorite place of resort for our citizens on pleasant afternoons and moonlight evenings.

FILED.—The Mountain Gold and Silver Mining Company No. 1 has filed in the office of the Secretary of State its certificate of the increase of its capital stock from $550,000 to $10,000,000; also certificate of removal of office from Silver Mountain to San Francisco. Certificates have also been filed with the County Clerks of San Francisco and Alpine counties.

LAND SLIDE.—During the heavy thunder storm on Thursday afternoon a land slide occurred on the road about one mile below Centerville, making it impassible for loaded wagons, but yesterday the road was cleared and put in good condition again.

PERSONAL.—N. D. Arnot, of the Vulcan Iron Works, San Francisco, arrived here last evening, accompanied by Chester H. Evans, draughtsman, of San Francisco. Mr. Arnot has contracted to erect a mill for the I X L Company.

GONE.—A Hermit Valley correspondent writes us that the sheep ranges in the mountains have been deserted and the innocents have been driven down into the valleys for shearing and to run on stubble.

ARRIVED.—The new engine built a the Vulcan Iron Works, San Francisco, for the Exchequer Mill has arrived, as well as the rest of the machinery, excepting six pans and one separator, which will be here next week.

ANOTHER FURNACE.—We understand than an O'Harra furnace will be erected at the new mill for the I X L. The brick for it—150,000—is being made at the brick yard near the Exchequer mill.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION.—The quarterly examination of teachers will take place at Silver Mountain on the 6th, 7th and 8th inst.

U. S. PATENTS.—Next week we shall publish the applications for U. S. Patents for the Exchequer North Extension and the Saugatuck mines.

CLOUDY.—To day is cloudy and occasionally we are favored with a sprinkle of rain. At noon the thermometer in our office stood at 73°

REFRESHING.—N. Piequet, of the Monitor Brewery, will accept our thanks for a keg of his excellent lager sent to this office.

HEAVY CROPS.—Our farmers have this year obtained large crops of hay—larger than usual.

SNOW.—On Tuesday afternoon last it snowed for several hours on the mountains.

THUNDER STORM.—On Thursday afternoon last a heavy thunder storm visited this county.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, August 24, 1876.

It is not passing strange that a man who had to flee his native country to find personal liberty should seem hungry to consort with "liberty killers" in his adopted home."

The words of the wise are as goods and as nails fastened by the great Master of Assemblies.

In a conversation with Hon. Julius H. Seelye, the able and impartial Representative from the Amherst district, Massachusetts, just before he left Washington, he said to the writer of this:

"I should consider it a grave misfortune to the country to have the Democratic party elect its candidates. My observations during the session have shown me two things: That they have raised a false cry of economy, under cover of which they have crippled the vital necessities of the government; and that they have deliberately and continually sought to blacken the character of honorable men. To show how false are their pretenses of retrenchment, I had a measure to introduce, affecting a certain part of my constituency, and requiring an appropriation of some thousands of dollars. I talked it over with leading Democratic members, seeking to secure the most favorable time for its introduction, and was told by every one of them precisely the same thing: 'keep it back until after the election and then we'll support it.' There is neither sincerity nor honor in such legislation. Knowing the honorable professor to have come here as an avowed Independent, and that he did not act with the Republicans upon the Amnesty question sprung by Mr. Blaine, I said to him: "Are you more favorably inclined or less so, to President Grant, from your knowledge of him in Washington?" He said, 'much more so. I have conversed with him intimately on many national questions, and am convinced that he is a sound, clear thinker, and is as devoted to the interests of the country now as when he led our armies in the war. He has been a grossly abused man."

Inquiring of Martin I. Townsend, the venerable "sage of Troy," who has been as conspicuous as Professor Seelye in winning a solid national fame in this, their first session in Congress, "what do you apprehend as the chief Republican difficulty in this campaign?" he said promptly and with his accustomed laconic manner, "that we may die of too much respectability. As a party, we are apparently settling down into a calm and passive faith in the excellence of our ticket, and the invincibility of high moral ideas as exemplified in Messrs. Hayes and Wheeler. Good God! we have got to work for a victory; and the heaven-appointed means of securing it are every fair means in our power. It is a fight—a fight! I have known Sam. J. Tilden year in and year out. As a reformer he is a sham; as a politician he is craftiness itself. Let the great Republican party walk up and put on the wisdom of the serpent and the eternal and omnipotent vigilance of action which alone will defeat these desperate men whose hands are at the throat of the nation."

To emphasize the reply of this shrewd and practical old Trojan, read the following paragraph from a vigorous letter written by another distinguished New Yorker, De Witt Clinton, in November, 1820, which seems to tingle and glow across the gulf of half a century, with self perpetuating fire:

"In political warfare the defensive side will eventually lose. Energy in a good cause will carry everything. The meekness of Quakerism will do in religion, but not in politics. There are great and consoling views in future. Republican government must and can be supported in its purity. The people are wiser than the men who attempt to deceive."

The lying association of the Democracy have already put their mud machine to work to blacken the aim of the Secretary of War in his Scott-Lord letter to General Sherman. The old mud machine has done service so long that it is growing shaky and needs more lubricating oil of probability than the ex-rebels can at present command to make its work effective in the North. The cry of "bayonet rule" by the organs of Tilden, besides being rather stale, is somewhat inconsistent with the positive assurance of Tilden in his letter of acceptance, that ample authority is lodged by the Constitution of the United States in the hands of the President to secure equal rights to all races and conditions of people, and that, if elevated to the Presidency, he will protect all by the means thus given to the Chief Magistrate. No one who pretends to be posted believes this promise to be sincere, but its acknowledgement of legal authority to enforce equal rights by the President, and of an intention to enforce protection in every part of the land on his own part, fully commits his followers to the policy and justice of such a course by the present administration. Tildenites will not be allowed to blow hot and cold with the same breath, or to claim power and rights in their hopefully suppositious administration which they deny to that actually in existence.

The old, well-worn methods of firing the Southern heart may still work in a measure among the followers of the 'lost cause,' but in other sections, and among those who have so long listened to this cry of "stop thief" by the marked robbers themselves, they will not any longer produce the proper dramatic effect. People ask a little rest from such transparent humbug.

"If the battle cry of the Democracy is not anti-resumption, what is it?"

Says the N. Y. Tribune: "We have been driven to the record of the party in Congress, and the only tangible thing to be found in that, is the voice to repeal the pledge of the Government to redeem its promises at a fixed time. That pledge has been distinctly, absolutely and unequivocally repudiated by a party vote of the Democratic House, and that constitutes the entire record of the party upon the subject. We are sorry if any one is aggrieved, because on this record we call the Democracy the party of repudiation. If it isn't that, what is it? Not the party of resumption, that's certain." Don't the "tail wag the dog" in this matter? "The object demanded by the convention," says Mr. Tilden in his letter, "is a resumption of specie payments." "The public will no longer accept shams. * * An unstable policy increases uncertainty.' While Mr. Hendricks adds: "Our national currency will not be convertible at the will of the holder." "We call the Democracy the PARTY OF REPUDIATION," and "Old Hickory" answers, "By the Eternal!"

GAMMA.

DEMOCRATIC DISHONESTY.—A Tribune Washington special says: "The examination by the Indian Office of the question pending concerning the removal of the Cherokees, has led to the unearthing of a Democratic swindle extending through three administrations, and amounting to over $3,000,000 of money stolen, which was appropriated by Congress at various times in connection with the removal of the Cherokees from northern Georgia and vicinity to the Indian Territory. A great portion of the money appropriated under the treaty of removal went into the hands of those in the ring which managed the affair, and which, through the administrations of Polk, Pierce and Buchanan, continued to press the claims, insert bills and secure appropriations for expenses incurred in the removal. When the actual cost of removal in many cases was only twenty dollars per head, from one hundred fifty to two hundred dollars were charged, and the bills for the removal of a fictitious number of Indians were submitted and allowed. The investigation thus far involves a number of Democratic politicians of the administrations named, and has shown that the money stolen outright was not less than $3,000,000."

TO THE POINT.—Samuel J. Tilden claims credit for exposing Tweed and bringing him to punishment. It is a well-known fact that Tilden presided at a Democratic convention wherein Tweed made a speech in favor of reform nearly one year after the New York Times had exposed his rascality. E. A. Storrs, in a speech at Chicago, hit the nail on the head when he said:

This Mr. Tilden, the Reformer, after having for years and years come at the beck and call of Mr. Tweed, after Tweed had been exposed by the Republican press and the Republican party, jumps on to the carriage when it is all ready to go and the streets in good order for travel, and takes a ride at Republican expense. (Loud cheers and laughter.) Let us have it out. Tweed was tried by a Republican judge, before a Republican jury, prosecuted by a Republican attorney general, convicted in the good old Republican way, sent to a Democratic jail, (laughter,) in charge of a Democratic jailor, and escaped in the old Democratic style. (Renewed laughter.) Thus ends that lesson of reform."

SCRIBNER'S.—We are in receipt of the September number of this popular monthly. The contents are: Princess Ilse, A Fantasy, That Lass o' Lowrie's, On a Miniature, Ins nity and its Treatment, Wesleyan University, A Soug, A Fox Hunt at Pau, The Ghostly Rental, Shadows, The Voyage of the "America," "A Wounded One will Read my Rhyme," Something about Birds, The Bride of the Rhine, Philip Nolan's Friends, Choice and Chance, Protestant Vaticanism, California Housekeepers and Chinese Servants, In and about the Fair, Topics of the Time, The Old Cabinet, Home and Society, Culture and Progress, The World's Work, Bric-a-Brac.

MEDICAL.

TASTELESS MEDICINES.

A prominent New York physician lately complained to DUNDAS DICK & CO. about their SANDALWOOD OIL CAPSULES, stating that sometimes they cured miraculously, but that a patient of his had taken them without effect. On being informed that several imitations were sold, he inquired and found his patient had not been taking DUNDAS DICK & CO.'S.

What happened to this physician may have happened to others, and DUNDAS DICK & CO take this method of protecting physicians, druggists and themselves, and preventing OIL OF SANDALWOOD from coming into disrepute.

PHYSICIANS who once prescribe the Capsules will continue to do so, for they contain the pure Oil in the best and cheapest form.

DUNDAS DICK & CO. use more OIL OF SANDALWOOD than all the Wholesale and Retail Druggists and Perfumers in the United States combined, and this the sole reason why the pure Oil is sold cheaper in their Capsules than in any other form.

OIL OF SANDALWOOD is fast superseding every other remedy, sixty Capsules only being required to insure a safe and certain cure in six or eight days. From no other medicine can this result be had.

DUNDAS DICK & CO.'S SOFT CAPSULES solve the problem, long considered by eminent physicians, of how to avoid the nausea and disgust experienced in swallowing, which are well known to detract from, if not destroy, the good effects of many valuable remedies.

Soft Capsules are put up in tin-foil and neat boxes, thirty in each, and are the only Capsules prescribed by physicians.

TASTELESS MEDICINES.—Castor Oil and many other nauseous medicines can be taken easily and safely in DUNDAS DICK & CO.'S SOFT CAPSULES. NO TASTE. NO SMELL.

These were the only Capsules admitted to the last Paris Exposition.
